

A NEW DRAFT SYSTEM

MEN SUBJECT TO DRAFT TO BE DIVIDED INTO FIVE CLASSES.

System Expected to Make Things Easier for Every One in Calling Out Men.

Announcement of the adoption of a new system of classification of drafted men, so as to put "the right man in the right place," has been made by Provost Marshal General Crowder. Under the new scheme, which has the approval of the President, every registered man will be catalogued with his local board, with a complete history that will enable the board to determine what class of service he is best fitted for.

The men subject to draft will be put into five separate classes, running from those who have no dependents or otherwise incapacitated for active service. Men physically fit and with no dependents, who will be in Class 1, are to be called out first, until the entire class is exhausted. After that, Class 2, comprising men with a small family dependent upon them, or men partly skilled, will come. Class 3 will take in highly skilled men, or those with aged parents dependent upon them, while Class 4 will include those with large families. Class 5 will embrace what will be known as the "discards," or men who are in no way fitted for active service.

The new method will not affect the 687,000 men already taken into the national army, but will apply to all others heretofore drafted and awaiting call. Under the system the order number of draft will not be changed, the men being called up before their boards exactly in the sequence in which their names were drawn from the draft bowl. The change, however, will sift the drafted men into the five different classifications, so that men whose names appear early in the list may be put by the local boards into classes that will delay actual call for service until classes ahead of them have been exhausted.

The whole new system, as explained by General Crowder, is the scientific working out of a method by which men will be assigned to the character of work they are best adapted to, and at the same time conserving the economic strength of the nation by delaying the time when the skilled workers, or men with families greatly dependent upon them, are called up.

To Send Questionnaire to Each Man.

Under this system local boards will send out to each enlisted man a questionnaire, going into minute detail as to the life, family, responsibility, and adaptability of the individual. These questionnaires have not as yet been made public. The individual will fill in the blanks with answers and return the questionnaire to the local board within seven days.

After that, the local board will decide in what class to put the drafted man, notifying him of its verdict. The man, if not satisfied with the decision of the board, may appeal to the district board, whose verdict will be final.

In addition to the classification by the local boards, there will be inaugurated an entirely new method of physical examination, which will not come until after the local board has acted and the men are called up. The physical examination will be conducted, it is announced, in a way that will eliminate any possibility of fraud or collusion. The new method will also do away with repeated examinations, entailing loss of time and involving expense.

The classifications are as follows, and shows every man registered to which class he belongs and in what order the different classifications will be called to service.

CLASS I.

1. Single man without dependent relatives.
2. Married man or widower with children (who habitually fails to support his family).
3. Married man dependent on wife for support.
4. Married man (or widower with children) not usefully engaged, family supported by incomes independent of his labor.
5. Men not included in any other description in this or other classes.
6. Unskilled labor.

CLASS II.

1. Married man or father of motherless children. Usefully engaged, but family has sufficient apart from his daily labor to afford reasonably adequate support during his absence.
2. Married man. No children. Wife can support herself decently and without hardship.
3. Skilled farm laborer engaged in necessary industrial enterprise.
4. Skilled industrial laborer engaged in necessary agricultural enterprise.

CLASS III.

1. Man with foster children dependent on daily labor for support.
2. Man with aged, infirm or invalid parents or grandparents dependent on daily labor for support.
3. Man with brothers or sisters incompetent to support themselves, dependent on daily labor for support.
4. County or municipal labor.
5. Firemen or policemen.
6. Necessary artificers or workmen in arsenals, armories and navy yards.

Report of Directors of Poor.

Directors of the Poor P. P. Eisenhart, C. A. Rife, and M. A. L. Trostle, with their clerk, H. F. Stambaugh, and the Steward, Harry Sheely, attended the convention of the Association of Directors of the Poor and Charities and Corrections of Pennsylvania, at Johnstown this month and presented the following report of this convention:

The Poor District of Adams County was organized under the Act of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, approved the 24th day of May, 1877, entitled "An Act to provide for the erection of a house for the employment and support of the poor in the county of Adams; the official corporate title of the Board of Directors to be 'The Directors of the Poor and of the House of Employment for the County of Adams.'"

Later, by the Act of 1890, making applicable to this county a former act governing the poor district of Cumberland county, the powers and duties of the directors of Adams county were enlarged.

These powers and duties included the right to hold title to real estate, to have perpetual succession, to erect buildings, to make requisition on the county treasury, to administer an oath or affirmation to witnesses on examination of matters connected with the business of the corporation, to grant aid and relief and employment to those entitled, to indenture children, to dispose of the real and personal estates of paupers, to make rules and regulations, and various other responsibilities. They have been more or less modified by recent legislation.

The poor district is co-terminous with the county; it derives its revenues largely from the county treasury on requisition, though many of its supplies are produced on the farm belonging to the district.

Our inmates numbered last year 102—in the Men's Department 29; in the Women's Department 32, and in the Hospital for the Insane 41. We have in our care twenty-five children, charged upon the district by order of relief or by our Juvenile Court. They are in various private homes throughout the county, and we visit them twice each year.

We note, in the report of your proceedings last year, that the average weekly cost for maintenance, per capita, in county-care hospitals throughout the State is $3.12, and that in Adams county it is $2.77, among the lowest. We believe that, irrespective of that fact, our institution is conducted with full regard to the comfort and welfare of the inmates.

We distribute in out-door relief annually about $2400.00, the largest amount going to any one person during the year being $2000, though in several instances there are two recipients in the same family. We make the distribution by a method which we consider convenient and satisfactory. An order is issued to the person entitled, which may be presented to any merchant and necessities (not cash) obtained thereon to the value of the amount issued. On the back of this order the merchant places a list of the goods gotten and charges it, when it becomes practically a check and may be presented to any bank or trust company for payment.

Our Board consists of three members, one of whom was elected last year. Each year the directors have a list of the goods gotten and charges it, when it becomes practically a check and may be presented to any bank or trust company for payment.

THE MYSTERY OF DEATH

AT THE THRESHOLD OF YOUNG HAPPY WOMANHOOD.

Justine M. Hartley After a Short Illness Passes Out of Life in Her Eighteenth Year.

Justine Marie Hartley, a beautiful bright young life, came to an end on Tuesday evening at her home on Carlisle street, in her 18th year. The mystery of death is given an analysis most difficult to understand when it came amidst the glories of happy girlhood, when life is all one bright morning with budding womanhood just beyond. Justine Hartley had graduated from High School in June, and at the play given by the High School girls and boys she took one of the leading parts, and our people were charmed with the unfolding woman then presented. The news that her life hung in a balance during the past summer sent a heartache through the town and hopes were entertained that she would be spared. The attack of tuberculosis was a type that matured quickly. Plans were made for her to go to a better climate for the winter but there was a turn for the worse. She had been making preparations to attend the Moravian Seminary at Allentown, but the developing illness prevented this. The funeral was held on Friday, Rev. J. B. Baker, her pastor, conducting the services, and interment being in Evergreen Cemetery. She is survived by her father, Howard C. Hartley, two brothers and a sister, Mahlon, Robert, and Ida, at home.

THE LIBERTY BOND SALE.

How Adams County is Doing Its Bit.

Detailed reports are not available as to the sale of the 2nd Liberty Bonds in Adams county and large sales are expected until the close of the subscription on Saturday evening, Oct. 27. Time is getting short. The bonds as an investment are ideal, not subject to taxation; it means practically a four and a half per cent loan. It is a form of investment as easily convertible and used as money.

Proportionally as to population, New Oxford would seem at the head of the list with sales made at the bank of that place of over $60,000. Gettysburg is second with sales in neighborhood of $175,000 and will likely run over $200,000, but will have to touch a $300,000 mark or more to be first on the list proportionally as to population. Littlestown has subscribed for about $20,000 and this amount will likely be added to by subscriptions before the week is out. All the banks of the county have made sales running from $5,000 upwards. The I. O. O. F. of Fairfield has bought $4,000 of the bonds. The total to-day is estimated safely at or near $300,000 and will likely close at a much higher figure.

Body of Tramp Found.

The body of a man believed to be a tramp was found last Saturday in the woods on farm of Albert Hollinger, north of town, by William Gulden and Leo Diehl, who were out hunting. The body was so decomposed as to be beyond identification and there was nothing about the clothes by which identification could be made. It is supposed the man was a tramp. Death was due to a self-inflicted wound in the right temple from a shot from a pistol. The pistol was in his right hand. Justice L. H. Meals was deputized by Coroner Woerner to hold the inquest and jury was impaneled and a verdict was rendered that the man came to his death by a self-inflicted wound. The act is supposed to have been committed about two months ago. A cane and crutch were found not far away from the body and Mr. Keckler on the Wills farm recalls that a man with a cane and crutch was allowed during the summer to sleep in the barn one night. The body was buried in cemetery at County Home.

Cost of Gettysburg Baseball 1917.

According to the report of the treasurer of the Blue Ridge League, the receipts of the six clubs were about $40,000 during the 1917 season. About $26,000 was taken in at the gates, not including receipts from grandstand, privileges, etc. which totaled $15,000 to $14,000 more. According to the receipts, the towns stood in following order: Hagerstown, Chambersburg, Martinsburg, Hanover, Frederick, and Gettysburg.

According to the treasurer's figures the gate receipts from games played at Gettysburg were $17,870 and the opening and holiday games added $377.70 more, or a total was paid at the gates in Gettysburg to see the games of $18,247.70. To this must be added grandstand receipts and privileges, probably $1,000 more. Then adding the subscribed guarantee at the start of the season and subsequent gate receipts, the total for Gettysburg during 1917 was $19,247.70.

The refund of the treasurer to the Gettysburg club was $500.

THE WHITE PLAGUE.

Tuberculosis is Often the Result of Lack of Nourishment.

While tuberculosis is caused by a well known germ, we often have a right to be suspicious of its coming from want of proper nourishment. This would seem to be a forerunner of the true disease of tuberculosis.

This want of nourishment is to be accounted for in several ways. The digestive system may be naturally weak—that is, born weak. It may have been strong in early life, but abused by the use of alcohol, eating rapidly when physically or mentally tired or by gulping food without proper chewing.

A plunge bath just after eating will often arrest digestion. The drinking of ice water during a meal or iced tea and coffee will reduce the temperature of the stomach so that the natural process of digestion is interfered with. As a result, the food is not properly prepared for the organs to absorb it. Therefore it is not taken up by the blood stream as it travels through the system of arteries to build up the different tissues of the body.

There are certain things that nature demands for building up healthy bodies. We must have some nitrogen in the form of meat or eggs or beans. We must have some fats, and we must have some starches; otherwise the body will be partly starved and disease germs will thrive in the different tissues. This occurs more often in the lungs than anywhere else, but there is hardly an organ in the body that will not, under certain conditions, become tuberculous. —Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Health Commissioner of Pennsylvania.

PLUCKY KORNILOFF.

Russia's Famous General Made Himself a Popular Hero.

General Korniloff is considered the pluckiest general in the Russian army. The story of his career reads like a fairy tale.

Short of stature, with a bristling mustache, Korniloff, who is a general of the Siberian Cossacks, first became known during the Russian retreat in the Carpathians in 1915. Against desperate odds he held out with his division till he himself was taken prisoner by the Teutons. For several months he was interned in Austria and had a very hard time there.

In 1916 he decided to escape. Disguised as a peasant, risking his life on many occasions, he walked hundreds of miles across the Carpathians into Roumania. When he finally arrived in Russia he was greeted with unbounded joy by the army. His feat also made him very popular with the entire nation. This made it possible for him to gain the great honor, immediately after the revolution, of being the first commandant of the revolutionary army at Petrograd.

In this capacity he was dispatched to Tsarskoe-Selo to arrest the czarina. The scene that followed his arrival at the residence of Nicholas Romanoff on March 21 has become historic.—New York Times.

A Curious Illusion.

People declare that they have seen a field of grass gradually change color during a shower of rain, thousands of mushrooms springing up before their eyes. This is an optical illusion caused by the rain beating down the grass. The mushrooms do not really spring up during a single shower of rain. They are there already, but hidden by the grass, and when the rain beats down the grass it exposes the hidden mushrooms.—London Mail.

A CONTRAST IN POLICE.

As They Are Seen In Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

In Christiania the policeman is a mild and amiable citizen in a rather shabby coat and none too neat who stands in the middle of the roadway and tries to maintain some semblance of order in the democratic muddle of the city's traffic.

In Stockholm the policeman is a walking arsenal, with sword and pistol and a brass helmet, and the arrest of a disorderly person becomes an act of state. There the policeman represents the high authority of a proud country. He fulfills his duty with a stern severity. He is the symbol of law and established order.

In Copenhagen the policeman is neither the happy-go-lucky citizen who patrols the streets of Norway nor is he a creature of resplendent glory like his colleague in Sweden. He strikes a happy medium. In this he is an excellent representative of a land where the art of sensible and peaceful living seems to have been brought to its highest perfection, where everybody seems well fed, where beggars are as scarce as very rich people and where the women live up to the best traditions of the charming china which is made in the royal residence of Denmark.—Hendrik Willem Van Loon in Century.

DEAD, YET STILL IT LIVES.

A Most Curious Freak of Nature Is the Vegetable Caterpillar.

Among the many strange growths, apparently freaks of nature, which are to be found in New Zealand the vegetable caterpillar readily ranks among the foremost. This caterpillar is several inches in length, is hairless and does not differ essentially in appearance from some of the caterpillars of our own land.

Its claim to distinction lies in the fact that when it gets ready to die it digs a hole for itself in the earth and completely buries itself. Later a slender green shoot springs from the spot. This bears two or more leaves near its top.

Upon investigation it is found that the green shoot springs from the head of the dead caterpillar, and further investigation develops the fact that the body of the caterpillar is filled with roots.

The form is retained without change, and the roots do not pierce through the skin or enter the ground. When dug up this dead yet living freak presents a most odd appearance, for the head and even the eyes of the caterpillar are distinctly seen, yet from the head is growing the green sprout, with its leaves.

Simplicity of Jenny Lind.

Jenny Lind must have been the most simple, unpretending prima donna that ever lived. When she first visited England she was bound to sing only at the Royal Italian Opera House, and when commanded to sing at the queen's concert she was obliged to refuse. Very sorry to be compelled to notify this, she ordered her carriage and drove straight to Buckingham palace. She handed her card to an official, who, not unreasonably, declined to take it. A higher authority happened to pass and took it upon himself to present it. As soon as her majesty saw it she said, "Admit her by all means." Jenny Lind appeared and said simply that she was so very sorry to be unable to sing at her majesty's concert that she thought it better to call herself and explain. The queen was charmed with her natural manner, gave her a cordial reception and promised to be her friend.

TO UTILIZE THE SUN'S HEAT.

Why Not Store It In Oil In Summer and Make It Work For Us?

Of course water can be heated only to the boiling temperature, but there are many liquids that can be heated to a very much higher temperature than this without boiling. I have taken a tumbler of olive oil and heated it by means of a thin iron wire connected with a voltaic battery. I placed in the tumbler of oil a test tube filled with water. In a short time the water was boiling, but the oil remained perfectly quiescent. If you store up hot oil instead of water you will have at your command a source of heat able to do all your cooking and even produce steam power to work machinery.

We have plenty of heat going to waste in Washington during the summer time, for the sun's rays are very powerful, and we do not use the roof of our buildings except to keep off the rain. What wide expanses of roof are available in all our large cities for the utilization of the sun's rays! Simple pipes laid up on the roof and containing oil or some other liquid would soon become heated by the sun's rays. The hot oil could be carried into an insulated tank and stored. You could thus not only conserve and utilize the heat that falls upon the tops of your houses, but effect some cooling of the houses themselves by the abstraction of this heat.—Alexander Graham Bell in National Geographic Magazine.

An Audacious Schoolboy.

The audacity of Warren Hastings as a Westminster schoolboy in carving his name beneath the clock on the western tower of the abbey pales before the audacity of another Westminster schoolboy, who secreted himself in the abbey in fulfillment of a wager that he would sleep in the abbey, notwithstanding the report that the ghost of Bradshaw, the president of the court at the trial of Charles I. who in the time of the Commonwealth occupied the deanery, haunted the building. He spent the night in the abbey and occupied his time in carving his name on the coronation chair, which bears to this day the following rudely cut inscription: "I. Peter Abbott, slept in this chair."—Dundee Advertiser.

The Call to Individuality.

No man thinks his own thoughts; no man uses his own eyes; no man stands upon his own feet; no man walks alone. We go in flocks; we lean on others; we follow the multitudes blindly; we bend our necks to the yoke of public opinion; we have no self reliance. The only virtue we have is conformity. The demand of the age is for men and women of character who are self poised, self reliant, independent and self assertive. Society follows customs and routine. The redemption of the race is in the originality of individuals.—Jacob Gould Schurman.

Milton's Works.

Milton regarded the "Paradise Regained" as infinitely superior to the "Paradise Lost" and once expressed great surprise that any one should entertain a contrary opinion. He said that of all his works the poem "On the Morning of Christ's Nativity" was his best. It was his earliest, being written in 1629, when he was twenty-one years of age.

FOOD FOR THE AGED.

Some Diet Rules For Those Who Are Advanced In Years.

Libraries have been written on diets for business men and actresses, but little thought has been given what aged people should eat. "Superintendents of homes for the aged show absolute ignorance of the diet that gentle changes necessitate," writes Dr. I. L. Nasher in the Medical Review of Reviews.

With advancing age there is less strength and activity. For these reasons the amount of food should be diminished. The loss of teeth in old age is nature's signal that an aged person should no longer eat meat, the only food that needs to be thoroughly masticated. "It is not necessary suddenly to discontinue the use of meat. There should be a gradual reduction, and only the light meat of young animals and fowl should be taken."

There is no definitely prescribed diet for old age, but there are a few rules that can be followed: The total amount of food must be diminished. It must be thoroughly cooked and finely chopped. Vegetables containing much cellulose should be freely used. Foods should be given in a liquid, semiliquid or mush form, and dry foods should be avoided. Foods should not be given at shorter intervals than four or five hours.

WASHING THE HANDS.

How to Get Them Clean After a Greasy Job on the Motorcar.

The following is a practice long familiar to railway engineers, who have to mess around oil, and it should serve equally well for their present day coadjutors of the motor car:

Wash the hands in warm water, using a soft, free lathering soap. Work up a good lather and then dip the fingers into a small dish of lubricating oil. This will further emulsify with the lather already on the hands and quickly cut the grime and dirt, leaving the hands clean and soft. Do not use too much oil, and always soap the hands before applying the oil.

After using this mixture be sure to let the washbowl drain and then rinse it quickly, as the oil, if left, separates from the soap and makes a ghastly mess on the sides.

Another good way of cleaning the hands after a dirty job around the car is to wash them in turpentine, rubbing it well into the skin and then wiping off thoroughly on something that can be thrown away. By doing this and finishing with warm water and plenty of soap the hands may be cleansed of all traces of the greasiest job.—New York Post.

The Road to Thrones.

In the year 1716 a girl called Marie d'Abbadie was hired as a servant in an inn at Pierrefitte, France. She was the daughter of peasants named Dominique Habas and Marie d'Abbadie. A Beauvais from the village of Boellh, whose name was Jean de St. Jean, stayed in this inn, saw the pretty maid, fell in love with her and on May 30, 1719, wedded her in the church at Assat. They had several daughters, the eldest of whom on Feb. 20, 1754, was married at Boellh to Henri Bernadotte, physician, son of Jean Bernadotte, master tailor. Their son was Napoleon's marshal, Bernadotte, who became king of Sweden and whose great-grandsons are respectively King Gustave V. of Sweden and King Haakon VII. of Norway.

Power of Eloquence.

A story is told of the great Irish orator, O'Connell. An attack had been made upon him in the house of commons. When O'Connell arose to reply his lofty brow was black with thunder and his arm uplifted as if to strike. Then, checking himself, he said, "But the gentleman says he loves Ireland." Lowering his tone to the rippling murmur of a summer brook, he continued, "I have no words of bitterness or reproach for any man who loves Ireland." The pathos in the fragmentary utterance of the last word brought tears to the eyes of many veterans of the house.

SHUN THE SWINDLERS.

When You Invest Your Money Do Not Buy a Gold Brick.

Swindling promoters are shrewd. Whenever they find any line of industry phenomenally successful they immediately organize fake companies and print lurid literature telling of the wonderful prospects in this line, of fortunes that have been made in it and of the opportunity they are giving to small investors to secure a generous income. So we have had automobile, oil, mining, real estate, hotel, plantation, and now there are several newer schemes, in which the credulous public is invited to put all its loose change.

Why doesn't the public realize that in all these lines of business the old well established and dividend paying concerns offer the best opportunities for investment? They never print lurid literature, guaranteeing fortunes and promising extravagant dividends. They are managed by men whose characters put them above this, yet the public who only bite on a bait that is made extraordinarily attractive by promises impossible of performance.

Hence the vogue of companies that sell their shares as low as 1 cent each. The man with $10 who can buy a certificate for 1,000 shares jumps at the promise held out to him that some day his $10 may grow into $10,000. To him it is a lottery, nothing else. And when he loses, as he always does, he goes out on the street corner and denounces the "sharks of Wall street."—Jasper in Leslie's Weekly

UNGATHERED HONEY.

Billions of Dollars' Worth Is Lost by Waste Every Year.

An editorial in the Farm and Fire side says:

The present centering of attention to economists on food waste is showing that one of the most unnecessary losses of a valuable food product is the ungathered nectar of flowers.

Speaking in a broad way, there are few farms in America that do not annually produce several hundredweight of honey over and above the honey required to sustain the bee harvesters of this appetizing staple food product.

The farms on which the owners systematically plan to save their honey at present are less than one in a hundred. On several million American farms where this honey goes unharvested year after year this wastage aggregates billions of dollars.

A Minnesota scientific bee culturist, Francis Jager, is authority for the statement that 100 colonies of honey bees suitably located and properly cared for can be expected to average a net production of profit twice as great as that of the average 100 acre farm of his state can show, while the equipment and overhead are less. Of course 100 colonies of bees cannot be pastured on an average sized farm, but there are innumerable farms where a dozen hives of bees could gather $100 worth of honey annually.

The Supreme Court.

For the supreme court of the United States there is no exact precedent either in the ancient or the modern times in making the great constitution the "fathers" availed themselves of all past knowledge and experience, but it was probably from the French publicist Montesquieu that they got their idea of the supreme court. In this book, "The Spirit of the Laws," Montesquieu, after making a masterly analysis of all forms of government, uses these words: "There is no liberty if the judicial power be not separated from the legislative and the executive." The framers of the constitution knew Montesquieu's book well, and there is no any room for doubt about their getting the idea of the supreme court from that source.—New York American.

Monkeys in Boots.

In tropical countries the natives have many unique ways of catching monkeys. One of them, as explained by a traveler, is this: The hunters walk about in short boots in sight of the monkeys. Then they take the boots off, place some gum in the bottom, and leave them on the ground, with drawing themselves to a great distance. Presently the monkeys come down from the trees and try on the boots, and when the hunters come after them the boots stick to the feet of the monkeys, and they are unable to climb. Thus the imitative little animals are captured.

A DOCTOR AND A THRONE.

How England's Present Royal Family Gained the Crown.

That George V. now sits on the throne of England is due in no small measure to the prognosis of a seventeenth century physician, Dr. Richard Mead, who was born in London Aug. 11, 1673. When Queen Anne, last of the Stuart rulers, became fatally ill in 1714 Dr. Mead was called in consultation. After an examination of the stricken queen he found that she was near death's door, and the doctor so informed the leaders of the Whig party with which he was affiliated.

The Whigs invited the Hanoverian succession and immediately on learning that Anne was soon to succumb began to plan for the realization of their ambitions. The regular physicians of the queen did not believe that she was so near to death, so when Anne breathed her last in 1714 the supporters of Anne's brother, James, were unprepared for the event. Anne's Tory ministry was in favor of placing James on the throne, but the Whigs, thanks to Dr. Mead, had already taken such action as to insure the succession of the elector of Hanover, and in September George I. made his triumphant entry into England.

Dr. Mead was rewarded by being made physician to the new royal family. Many English historians have attributed large importance to the physician's prognosis in bringing about the succession of the royal house which has ruled England for two centuries.—New York World.

NEW SLANG WHICH IS OLD.

Chaucer Said "Come Off," and Shakespeare Wrote "Good Night."

A new slang phrase is sprung and sweeps the country. If it is apt and pat you will hear it on the street, from the pulpit and in the schoolroom. Then, apparently without reason, its vogue vanishes, and it is added to the world's collection of antiquities.

Perhaps one reason why a new slang expression is short lived is because some investigator finds that it really is not new, but merely a revival of a phrase which in its day was not slang at all. It has remained for Professor R. P. Utter in Harper's Magazine to throw light on the expression "Good night!" meaning finality. The vaudeville entertainers who first used it, thinking they were originators, should be a trifle crestfallen to find that it belongs to one William Shakespeare. Get out Part I. of "Henry IV." You will read there:

If he fall in, good night! Or sink or swim!

But that isn't all. "Come off" and "Go sit down" have had their day, but we all thought they were new until Professor Utter found them both in Chaucer.

And "Not in it" and "Cut it out," both striking American slang phrases, come from English literature of the highest type. Shakespeare used "Not in it," and Richard Brinsley Sheridan incorporated "Cut it out" in one of his plays.

Making Shrapnel.

Were the average layman able to grasp the staggering complexities of chemical and mechanical details involved in the making of a shrapnel shell he would be amazed. For instance, 170 gauges are required to manufacture the combination time and percussion fuse for three-quarter inch shrapnel. The powder used must have the correct burning time or the explosion will occur too soon or too late. It is impossible to obtain two powders with the same burning time; hence the burning time has to be determined on each lot of powder. This formerly required one and one-half hours; now it takes five minutes. Likewise the time consumed in blending powders has been reduced from sixteen hours to fifteen minutes.—Popular Science Monthly

Song of the Brown Thrasher.

When the brown thrasher starts to sing one might just as well listen, as he will be heard, and every other bird might just as well keep still, as nothing else can be heard. He dominates the entire vicinity. He is on the stage in the middle of the spotlight. His performance is dramatic. It is comic opera at its best. The brown thrasher is more commonly known, probably, as the brown thrush or sometimes as the cinnamon thrush, but as the bird does not belong to the thrush family he should be given his proper name. He is a cousin of the catbird and the mocking bird.—Ohio State Journal.

BAILING OUT A CANOE.

What to Do in Still or Rough Water When the Craft Is Swamped.

In reasonably still waters one man or boy can bail out an upset canoe. There are two good methods—rocking it out and shoving it out. In the first swim around to the stern of the canoe and get out the water inside, rocking from side to side so that it flops out at each reverse. As soon as enough is out to give her a good freeboard get aboard over her stern and dash out the rest with your hands.

Shoving the water out also depends on the momentum of a body of water. Swim astern and, grasping the stern breasthook, give her a smart pull toward you. The water will slop out in a torrent over her bows. Then shove away from you with all your strength, and the water will come rushing aft and slop out over her stern. Keep this up until about half emptied, says a writer in Bugs' Life, then get aboard over her stern and dash out the rest with your hands.

I do not believe that a single man or boy can bail out a swamped canoe in a heavy blow. Stick to her, for she is your only hope, and get overboard at the heavy duff. If the water is not too cold get our some twine or fish line and buoy mark-rifles, axes, etc., by lowering them to the bottom and tying a floating duffie bag at the surface anchored by the gun. This leaves the canoe free. Right her and get into her still awash.

Watch your chance to get water out and do so at every opportunity. Sooner or later she will drift ashore and if you feel yourself getting numb rest your head on bow or stern breasthook and keep quiet. If the water is cold act quickly. Heave out all duffie, right the canoe and get in and bail steadily. You may beat out the waves and at least will keep exercising while you drift to the shore.

CHROMIUM STEEL.

A Metal That Will Neither Rust Nor Become Tarnished.

Cutlery made of steel that neither rusts nor tarnishes is now sold in all first class shops. "The new steel," says the Scientific American, "was discovered in England, but is now being made in the United States and sold as table cutlery. It is what is commonly called an alloy steel—that is, it differs from ordinary steel in that it contains a special element or metal.

"In this case it is chromium, which is mainly responsible for bestowing the stainless and rustless properties. By incorporating from 12 to 13 per cent of this metal in mild carbon steel the new properties are obtained.

"An English metallurgist in gathering together some rods of steel which had lain a long time in his laboratory, noticed that while most of them were badly rusted or stained, a few were as bright as when originally made. This led to the discovery and manufacture of the steel.

"The new steel is more expensive than the old, which usually appears in the every day table knife. Its advantages and lasting properties, as well as its appearance and the convenience arising from its use, more than offset the extra cost. The fact that it does not tarnish, stain or corrode augments its value decidedly. It is supplanting not only the old steel cutlery, but also the plated. Its possibilities, however, are by no means limited to cutlery. One can readily imagine to what countless uses a stainless and rustless metal can be put."

Too Much Meat as Bad as Too Little.

"Too much meat is as bad for the body as too little," we are told in the Woman's Home Companion. "During the digestion of meats, fish and eggs, acids are formed. In order to prevent the accumulation of too much of this acid in the system it is necessary to eat also fresh vegetables and fruits, which have properties that neutralize the acids formed by the meat. This is one reason why meat and potatoes are usually served together. It is safer to have too little meat than to eat too little fruit and too few vegetables."

Use Distilled Water For Battery.

In the Woman's Home Companion C. H. Claudy, the automobile expert, says: "There is only one kind of water to use in a storage battery; that is distilled water. No other water of any character will will do. The animal and vegetable matter, as well as mineral, which is in all other water is very injurious to a storage battery. Only distilled water, which can be bought from druggists in bottles, should ever be used to replace water evaporated from a storage battery."

Tired Eyes.

When the eyes are tired and dulled use either an eye lotion bath or one made of water to which a little borax powder has been added. Keep the eyes open in the water. This both strengthens and brightens them. Knitting the brows when reading or working is a habit certain to produce disfiguring lines on the face.—Pittsburgh Press.

STATUS OF TWO STREETS

BALTIMORE AND CHAMBERSBURG STREETS.

Judge Kunkel Holds that While Owned by State There is no Duty to Repair.

The relevant facts of this case have been agreed upon by the parties and are contained in the petition and return. They are as follows: The State Highway Commissioner acquired the turnpike road, on behalf of the Commonwealth, from the Gettysburg & Petersburg Turnpike Road Company. The road ran through the borough of Gettysburg and within its limits constituted the streets, respecting the maintenance of which this controversy has arisen. Portions of the road were designated as State Highways in routes No. 42 and No. 43 in the Act of May 31, 1911, P. L. 468. The streets are in unsafe condition and in need of repair. This proceeding has been brought by the Town Council of the borough against the State Highway Commissioner for the purpose of compelling him to repair and maintain them.

Before the State Highway Commissioner may be directed to perform this duty, it must clearly appear that it has been imposed upon him. Every duty touching the improvement, maintenance and repair of highways that rests upon him is to be found in the Act of May 31, 1911, which establishes the State Highway Department. That Act defines his powers and duties. It also declares that certain roads, turnpike roads and highways described therein shall be known, marked, built, rebuilt, constructed, repaired and maintained at the sole expense of the Commonwealth, shall constitute a system of State Highways and shall be under the exclusive authority and jurisdiction of the State Highway Department. The present turnpike road acquired by the Commonwealth is included in part in the system and is particularly described in the Act as follows: "Route 42. From Gettysburg to the Maryland State line commencing in Gettysburg and running by way of Littlestown to the Maryland State line." "Route 43. From Gettysburg to Chambersburg commencing in Gettysburg, thence running by way of McKnightstown and Cashtown to a point on the dividing line between Adams and Franklin counties, thence by way of Fayetteville into Chambersburg, Franklin county."

It will be observed that the public roads designated in the several routes numbered in the Act are those which run between principal cities, boroughs and towns. It will be observed further that the Highway Commissioner is authorized to take the roads over from the counties and townships for their improvement, maintenance and repair at the expense of the Commonwealth, and for the relief of the townships or counties from any further obligation or expense for their maintenance or repair and from authority over them. In other words, the general purpose of the Act was to authorize the State Highway Department to take over the roads named in the several designated routes and to improve, maintain and repair them at the sole expense of the Commonwealth in relief of the townships and counties. There does not appear to be anything in the Act relieving boroughs from the maintenance of highways or roads within their limits, except so far as specified provision is made therefor in Section 10 of the Act, to which we will shortly refer. Section 9 authorizes the Highway Commissioner to acquire, either by purchase or by condemnation proceedings, any turnpike road owned or controlled by a turnpike company or other private corporation, where the whole or any part of such road or route forms all or any portion of a State highway as described and defined in the Act. It was under this provision that the Highway Commissioner acquired the turnpike in this case. The fact, however, that such turnpike road ran through the borough and the streets thereof constituted part of the turnpike, cannot we think be held a sufficient reason for imposing upon the State Highway Department the duty of repairing and maintaining the streets, especially in view of Section 10 of the Act which expressly provides that "anything herein contained, or any appointment of the State into highway districts, shall not be construed as including or in any manner interfering with the roads, streets, and highways in any of the cities, boroughs, or incorporated towns of the Commonwealth." This restriction is modified only by the proviso which permits the State Highway Department with the consent of the borough or town council to improve or reconstruct, according to the standards of the State Highway Department and at the expense of the Commonwealth any street or highway in a borough forming part or section of any State Highway and not already improved or reconstructed according to the standards of the Department. The conditions upon which the State Highway Commissioner may act are set forth, and provision is made for the joint maintenance thereafter of such road by the borough and State Highway Commissioner; but the power to take over the road is a discretionary power which the Courts cannot control. Apart from this provision for the acquisition and control for the purpose of maintenance of roads and highways within boroughs, we can find no duty imposed by the Act upon the State Highway Commissioner to maintain and repair borough streets and highways. On the other hand, as we have said, the Act expressly provides that nothing therein shall be construed to authorize any interference by the Highway Commissioner with streets and highways in boroughs.

There being no duty imposed upon the State Highway Commissioner by the Act of 1911 to repair and maintain the streets in question, this proceeding must be dismissed. The doctrine is well settled, that to enforce the performance of a duty by a public official the duty must clearly appear.

Accordingly the writ of preceptory mandamus is refused and the proceedings dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

GEORGE KUNKEL, P. J.

Trip to Lancaster Farms.

The Farm Bureau has completed the final arrangements for the steer feeders' excursion to Lancaster Co. The plan is to leave Gettysburg Square at 6 o'clock A. M. Monday, October 29th. The men from the Littlestown and Hanover section will leave at approximately the same time and join the Gettysburg party where the Hanover road meets the Lincoln Highway at 7 o'clock at what is known as the "Five Mile House" about five miles from York. The arrangements are then to proceed direct to the Lancaster Stock Yards and spend the remainder of the morning there.

In the afternoon it is planned to run out to Manheim about ten miles north of Lancaster and attend a steer feeders' demonstration on the farm of Christ Culp. F. S. Bucher, of the Lancaster County Farm Agent, will give the results that he has secured from approximately two hundred Lancaster county steer feeders as to the value of economical feeding rations. Profs. Tomhave and Havener of State College, will also be there and give talks along phases of live stock industry.

The Adams County Farm Bureau feels that it is a trip well worth the while for any one to take. In this time of high prices of feeds and of cattle to be placed in the feed lot, it is essential that the most economical method be employed.

Every one is welcome to go along on this trip. If you intend to go, notify H. F. Hershey, Farm Bureau, Gettysburg, so that arrangements can be made accordingly.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WIN THE WAR!

OVER in France are thousands of Uncle Sam's Boys in Khaki, and hundreds of thousands more will soon be there. That's their place on the Battle Line. They are fighting for you.

You have not worked to the beat of drums. You have not "sought the great prize of death in battle." But you can help tremendously--now--and show the Boys in Khaki that you are fighting for them in the Fields, or in the Factory, just as they are fighting for you in the Trenches.

BUY LIBERTY BONDS. Enlist every dollar you can raise to fight alongside your Sons, Brothers and Neighbors, who are bearing the brunt of your battle in FRANCE.

The greatest service your dollars can render is but little compared with that of the boys who wear UNCLE SAM'S Uniform. They are staking their lives. But you in Buying Liberty Bonds, are taking no chance, for Liberty Bonds, bearing interest at four per cent, are the best and safest investment you can make.

The dollar in your pocket is no more sound than a Liberty Bond. The Government is back of both. In fact, a Liberty Bond is even better than money, for money can never be worth more than one hundred cents on the dollar, while Liberty Bonds are just the same as cash and at the same time pay you $4 a year interest on every $100 Bond.

Traitors' Hands in Loan Obstacles.
That German propaganda is being circulated in York county, and perhaps in Adams county, in a seemingly organized effort to hinder the success of the Liberty loan has been disclosed by Grier Hersh, York-Adams chairman. According to the York-Adams official, evil-minded persons, apparently German sympathizers, are spreading ridiculous reports through the district, and he says it is a deplorable fact that certain of York county's residents seem to prefer to believe rumors issued from such sources instead of their own government and their own president.

"Germany's agents seem to have a definite plan of action here," declared Mr. Hersh. "First, there is an attempt to intimidate banks into not subscribing to bonds through threatened withdrawal of deposits. Secretary McAdoo in a statement issued says that if any such action is reported to him he will prosecute such people to the fullest extent of the law, and I call on public safety committeemen, Liberty Bond chairmen and all friends of the United States Government, to report any such persons to me in this district and I will immediately turn their names over to the secretary."

"Second, there is a constant and persistent rumor that the United States Government will seize the money of the depositors in the national banks. This is absolutely untrue, because nothing could be more against the interests of the Government than to interfere with the banking facilities of the people of the country. Nothing could stop the wheels of progress as much as preventing the business men of the country from being able to borrow as usual from the banks. The Government is doing just the opposite. It is encouraging people to purchase Liberty Bonds on the installment plan, pledging their future earnings at so much a week, in order to relieve as much as possible the strain on the banks of the country, and is also encouraging thrift for this purpose. Any statement of this sort is a disloyal and traitorous statement and any one circulating such reports should be immediately reported to one of the Liberty Bond or public safety chairmen throughout county."

"Third, there is a constant effort to spread the false information that the people are asked to give this money to the Government. It is just the opposite. The United States Government is trying to borrow this money, and is offering a 4 per cent bond free of taxes to small holders. The Government is offering everybody a square deal. The Government has perfect power instead of doing this, to place a tax on the people's earnings and take a dollar a week. Instead of that it is requesting the people to buy a $50 bond, pay for it at the rate of $1 a week, and it gives them 4 per cent interest on all the money they pay in during the 52 weeks and pays them the same rate of interest if they desire to hold the bond for 25 years.

"It makes my blood boil to find that the people will listen to all sorts of rumors from any source whatever, and disbelieve the plain statement of the president of the United States, who is doing everything in his power to carry this war to a successful termination."

Prospects in York and Adams counties for sale of bonds is good.

Day of Prayer for American Cause.

(By the President of the United States.)
A Proclamation:
Whereas, The Congress of the United States by a concurrent resolution adopted on the fourth day of the present month of October, in view of the entrance of our nation into the vast and awful war which now afflicts the greater part of the world, has requested me to set apart by official proclamation a day upon which our people should be called upon to offer concerted prayer to Almighty God for His divine aid in the success of our arms; and

Whereas, It behooves a great free people, nurtured as we have been in the eternal principles of justice and of right, a nation which has sought from the earliest days of its existence to be obedient to the Divine teachings which have inspired it in the exercise of its liberties, to turn always to the supreme Master, and cast themselves in faith at His feet, praying for His aid and succor in every hour of trial, to the end that the great aims to which our fathers dedicated our power as a people may not perish among men, but be always asserted and defended, with fresh ardor and devotion and, through the divine blessing, set at last upon enduring foundations for the benefit of all the free peoples of the earth.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, gladly responding to the wish expressed by the Congress, do appoint October 28, being the last Sunday of the present month, as a day of supplication and prayer for all the people of the nation, honestly exhorting all my countrymen to observe the appointed day, according to their several faiths, in solemn prayer that God's blessings may rest upon the high task which is laid upon us, to the end that the cause for which we give our lives and treasure may triumph and our efforts be blessed with high achievement.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done in the District of Columbia this nineteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-second.

(Seal) WOODROW WILSON.
By the President:
ROBERT LANSING, Sec. of State.

He Did It.

boss has fired me for telephoning you so often.—Boston Transcript.

Pa Knew.
"Pa, how long can a man live on water?"
"It depends, Willie, on whether he is aboard a ship that won't sink."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Rare.

work."—Detroit Free Press.

To give up of your own will what could cost too much in time and strength is not failure—it is success.
Something in Your Eye.
Foreign bodies in the eye, if they have not penetrated any part of the eyeball, are best removed by pulling the lid away from the eyeball with the fingers, so that the tears will flow and wash the particle away. Never rub the eye. When the eyeball is penetrated you cannot see an oculist too quickly.

Bessarabia.
The original inhabitants of Bessarabia are believed to have been Climerians, after whom came the Scythians.
Because it was the key to one of the approaches toward the empire of Byzantium the province was invaded by many successive races during the early centuries of the Christian era.
Trajan incorporated it with the province of Dacia, and in the next century
the Goths poured into it, to be followed in turn by the Huns, the Avars and the Bulgarians. In the seventh century a Thracian tribe, known as the Bessi, settled there and gave to the land its name.

Universal and Eternal
"Yes, life is universal and eternal for time is one of its factors—yesterday the moon, today the earth, tomorrow Jupiter. In space there are cradles and tombs. The red carbon stars will soon be dead; the hydrogen stars, like Vega and Sirius, are the stars of the future; Procyon, Capella and Arcturus are the stars of the present. Aldebaran seems to be already an antumn fruit." So said Flammarion.

Sportingly Considered.
"Remember the story of the hare and the tortoise?"
"Yes," replied Erastus Pinkley. "But that story don't tell you nothing 'bout de odds dat was posted agin de tortoise.

Stale Bread.
The readiest explanation of why bread becomes stale would be to attribute it to the evaporation of water.
This explanation is, however, erroneous. The amount of water in new bread and stale bread shows scarcely any difference, and the striking change the drying of the crumb, is rather due to the fact that the water contained in the bread forms with the gluten a compound that appears dry. By heating stale bread for a short time it again assumes the condition of new bread, and this is the best proof that there cannot be a loss of water.

Wasting His Time.
"I have here," said the shabby caller,
"a book containing a hundred money making secrets."
"What is the price?"
"Twenty-five cents."
"How many sales have you made today?"
"Only three or four."
"Umph! If that book contains as many money making secrets as you say it does why don't you take a day off and read it?"—Exchange.

USE YOUR DRIVING POWER.

If You Want a Thing, Want It Earnestly Enough to Get It.
Just wanting something will rarely obtain it for you. You've got to go out and get it for yourself. In an article called "Increase Your Driving Power" in the American Magazine a writer quotes an authority as saying:
"After all, a man does what he wants to do. Therefore he must be taught as a child and he must learn in adult years to teach himself to want to do the right thing and the big thing and to want it so hard that he is bound to arrive at the wished for goal. Anybody can sit down and say, 'I'd like to be the head of my company or the president of the United States or the best salesman in the world.' That much is easy. It is exactly what the baby does when it sits on the floor and squalls for a piece of candy. But it is a very different thing from wanting something so much that it is willing to set about it and undertake at once the doing of the impossible."
"The trouble with the average man is that he does not want things hard enough. And one reason for this is that he has not been taught the value of this 'wanting.' He has not been shown in his schools and in his life that man has tremendous resources for wanting and for willing and that as he continues to will and he will find in himself unknown and unsuspected layers of energy. There is always enough energy to supply a man's desires for success if he will tap the source of it."

FATHER'S LITTLE JOKE.

The Way It Does Not Impress His Wife and Daughter.
When a man bears a joke which his primitive sense of humor classifies as
"the funniest thing he has ever heard"
he hurries home to bear the glad tidings to his wife. Father produces his great discovery, but mother's countenance remains untroubled by so much as a smile. Nine wives out of ten will gaze blankly into that interesting emptiness to which woman's eyes are continually traveling over her husband's shoulder. The tenth and cruelest creature will wither her spouse with a penetrating stare which registers "I see nothing—absolutely nothing—funny in that."
Disgusted and baffled, the husband tells the same joke to his daughter.
Her only indication of amusement is a pitying uplift of the eyebrows and a subsequent absorption in her knitting.
With his finger on the last unbroken string of hope father approaches his nearest masculine relative. At last success is his, for his son or his son-in-law or his uncle roars, applauds and slaps him on the back. Father bows to imaginary audiences and compliments his fellow man on his perspicacity and his fortunate possession of a sense of humor. He pities "those women, those poor, defective women."—New York Evening Sun.

Ancient Glass.
Fragments of wine vases as old as the Exodus have been discovered in Egypt. The art of glassmaking was probably known to the ancient Assyrians. In the New Testament glass is alluded to as an emblem of brightness (Revelation iv, 6; xv, 2; xvi, 18).

A MATTRESS ON A WARSHIP.

It Is Both a Comfortable Bed and a Fine Life Preserver.
It must afford considerable consolation to the navy recruit to realize that the mattress on which he sleeps so comfortably at night will stand him in good stead in case of an accident to the ship. In fact, the very buoyancy which makes it such a comfortable bed is also the quality which makes it possible for it to be converted at a moment's notice into a life preserver, says the Popular Science Monthly.
The mattresses are stuffed with kap-pok, a lighter than cork material which is imported from the West Indies in bales similar to bales of cotton. It is made from the seeds and silk of a tree not unlike the cotton wood tree, but instead of being in puffy balls the kapok is in slender threads, which when compressed make a mass that is six times more buoyant than cork.
Thin layers of the kapok are placed in strong ticking for the mattress.
Each mattress is provided with loops long enough to tie around the body over the shoulders. It requires only a minute to adjust them.

Unter den Linden.
Unter Den Linden is the famous street in Berlin which extends from the Brandenburg gate eastward about three-fifths of a mile. Bordering it are the princely and imperial palaces, the university, the academy, the statue of Frederick the Great, etc. It means
"under the lindens."

A Solemn Duty.
"Why did Hanges change his iron gray hair to black?"
"Because his fiancée thought the gray in his hair made him look too old for her, and he thought it was his duty to obey his sweetheart's dying request."
—Exchange.

Where There Was No Change.
"Don't you think I'm thinner than when you saw me last?"
"Well, you may be thinner, but to me
you're just as thick as ever."—Chicago Tribune.

Persian Ware.
True porcelain was never produced in Persia, but hard paste porcelain in Persian forms and styles of decoration was made in China for the Persian market.
Wine ewers with powder blue glaze and gold overglaze decoration, small vase and bowls with bronze luster glaze and designs reserved in white are found in collections of Persian ware, but these are unquestionable of Chinese origin.

Frequently the Case.
"We endeavored to keep an account of our expenditures, but, after all, it didn't give us a very clear idea of where the money went."
"Why not?"
"Because both my wife and myself had too many items that we wanted to list as sundries."—Lamb.

Opportunity.
It is a maxim agreed upon in agriculture that nothing must be done too late, and, again, that everything must be done at its proper season, while there is a third precept which reminds us that opportunity lost can never be regained.—Pliny the Elder.

Makes For Trouble.
"Just because a man is always giving himself away is no sign that he has a generous disposition."
"No, it isn't. But unless his wife has a generous disposition it's a sign that he is always in hot water."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Many a man's vices have at first been nothing worse than good qualities run wild.—Hare.

She Knew What to Take.
Five-year-old Mary, who is always anxious to be in everything that goes on, lives in a small town where the long suffering minister still endures donation parties to make his back salary. Just before the last one she begged eagerly.
"Can't I take somethin', too, muvver?"
"No. If your father and I take something, that will be plenty."
But the child could not bear to give up the idea. So she ransacked the whole house for something suitable.
Finally she appeared before her mother with a worn and faded dress of her own.
"Please, muvver, can't I take this?"
See, it's not a speck of good for anything," she urged.—Christian Herald.

Red Dragon of Wales.
Henry VII, the first of the Tudor monarchs, introduced the red dragon of Wales into the royal standard after the battle of Bosworth.
Queen Mary had it removed, and Queen Elizabeth replaced it, but it was finally displaced as one of the quarterings by James I in favor of the unicorn and has never since been accorded a place on the monarch's personal flag.
King George, however, when the Welsh Guards were added to the army
a few years ago, approved of the red dragon being emblazoned on the king's color of that regiment.—London Chronicle.

Her Excuse.
Mother—Willie, I was very much surprised and shocked last evening when I passed the parlor door and saw Mr.
Woodbe with his face close to yours.
Daughter—Yes, mamma; isn't it a shame? The poor fellow is so awfully nearsighted.—London Telegraph.

Just a Step.
"You may not believe it, mum, but I wunst knelt at de feet of a queen."
"And how did you fall so low as to become a tramp?"
"It wuzn't much of a fall, mum. You see, I was a super in de movies."—Exchange.
